WILSON WARNS OF NEW WAR PERIL

$5000 GEM THEFT IN CLUB

Mrs. Wendell Phillips, President of "Carry-On," Victim of New York Robbery

New York, July 10.—Robbery of $5,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Wendell Phillips, president of the Carry-On Club, at No. 21 East Thirty-eighth street, on Tuesday morning, became known with the posting of a notice at the club offering a reward of $500 to "any person living in this house" who would return the gems.

There are forty lodgers, all former service men in the army, navy or marine corps, who are permanently disabled. They pay $10 a week for their subsistence, the rest being added by the government and by the directors of the house.

The jewelry, consisting of four diamond rings set in platinum and a large platinum bar pin containing eighteen diamonds, had been placed on the chiffonier at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, when Mrs. Phillips and a friend, Miss Grace Rutherford of Washington, went to the club to stop Mrs. Phillips usually goes to her summer home at Fairfield, Conn, after her duties are finished at the house, but, having been at a theatre party and then to dinner that night, she remained in New York.

Her room is on the first floor, directly behind the club's office, and entrance to it is only possible through a door at the rear of the office. It is Mrs. Phillips' belief that the intruder went through the two open doors and took the gems from the chiffonier which is directly alongside the entrance. Miss Rutherford, she said, also had rings and other jewelry, valued at the same amount, but these were lying on another chiffonier at the farther end of the bedroom, thus being out of reach.

When Mrs. Phillips arrived at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning she noticed that her jewels were gone and she immediately notified the police. Detective Jenkins of the West Thirtieth street precinct is assigned to the case. The reward notice reads as follows:

"Five hundred dollars reward to any person living in this house who finds or returns the jewelry of Mrs. Wendell Phillips which disappeared on Tuesday, July 8. No questions will be asked."

BANDIT, SHOT IN CHEST, ESCAPES

Providence, July 10—James Wilson of Cambridge, an alleged highwayman who was supposed to be on his deathbed at the Rhode Island Hospital, escaped from that institution today and is being sought by the police of Rhode Island. Wilson, shot through the chest, sat up in bed the first time yesterday.

Wilson's escape is shrouded in mystery. Physicians at the hospital had given up hope for his recovery. At 3:30 this morning attendants found his cot empty, and a search was instituted. A few minutes later a taxicab chauffeur dashed into police headquarters and said that Wilson had tried to hire the taxi to be driven to a Clifford street lodging house. A city-wide search was begun at once.

Wilson, who is twenty-four years old, was taken to the hospital ten days ago, following the holdup of Nicholas Lambi, a taxi driver. Wilson engaged Lambi to drive him to Agawam, near Narragansett Pier in the woods he shoved a revolver under Lambi's nose and relieved the taxi man of $2.50. Then he drove the chauffeur into the woods. He was about to tie Lambi to a tree, when the latter whipped out a revolver and shot the highwayman through the chest.

R-34 OVER 700 MILES ON WAY

Dirigible Speeds Homeward at 66 Miles an Hour; Due London Saturday Noon

New York, July 10.—Speeding eastward at more than sixty-six miles an hour (57.5 knots), the big British dirigible R-34 was more than 700 miles from her starting point, Mineola, L. I., at noon today, wireless dispatches from her forward gondola indicated. Throughout the early morning she was heading a course almost directly east of the southern coast of Rhode Island and taking advantage of a brisk westerly wind. If she maintains her present rate of speed she will reach London in slightly more than fifty-one hours, arriving over the British capital before noon, London time, Saturday.

New York, July 10.—The British dirigible R-34, which sailed away from New York on the return trip to the British Isles at 1:20 this morning, is speeding up the Atlantic coast.

Major Scott, the dirigible's commander, has mapped a course that takes the airship in a northeasterly direction off the Atlantic Coast to the fifty-second parallel, when the R-34 will swing eastward and head directly for Pasinet, on the southwestern tip of Ireland, proceeding from Pasinet to Pauliaon's suburb of London.

At her present rate of speed, the R-34 should reach Pasinet a distance of 2,750 miles, in fifty-seven hours, arriving at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. She should reach London early Saturday night in time to soar over the British capital and give Londoners something of the thrill experienced

4 RESCUED IN STORM AT SEA

Lifesaver and Lobsterman Come to Aid of Party Off Nantasket

Four men, one of them at the point of exhaustion, were rescued in a gale off Nantasket by Edwin Haleh, a lobsterman, and Edward Clare, Nantasket Beach lifesaver.

Three of the men were in a boat which was rapidly being blown to sea, while the fourth, whose skiff had capsized, had been swimming for some time when picked up.

According to Mr. Haleh, who had rescued a girl in Stony Beach Cove earlier in the day, the three men started out in a small boat off Strawberry Hill ledge. They apparently intended to row for a time and then go ashore. The southwest offshore gale, however, caught the small craft and carried it out despite the frantic endeavors of the men at the oars.

Another unidentified man, a member of the group that he was more capable than the three in the boat, put out alone in a skiff and started to their aid. He had proceeded but a short distance, however, when his craft was partially filled with water and capsized.

This man had rowed about a mile and a half in the direction of the boat containing the others, which was being carried away from him by the gale, when he was picked up.

Mr. Haleh, one of whose hands was laid up because of blood poisoning, said that he would not have stopped for Lifesaver Clare but for this reason.

Text of President Wilson's Address to the Senate

Washington, July 10.—Following is the text of President Wilson's address in presenting the peace treaty to the Senate:

Gentlemen of the senate:

The treaty of peace with Germany was signed at Versailles on the 28th of June. I avail myself of the earliest opportunity to lay the treaty before you for ratification, and to inform you with regard to the work of the conference by which that treaty was formulated.

This treaty constitutes no less than a world settlement. It would not be possible for me even in summarize or to enumerate the manifold provisions of an address which must of necessity be something less than a treatise. My services and all the information I possess will be at your disposal and at the disposal of your committee on Foreign Relations at any time (either informally or in session as you may prefer, and I hope that you will not hesitate to make use of them.

A GENERAL OUTLINE.

I shall at this time prior to your own study of the document attempt only a general characterization of its scope and purpose.

In one sense, no doubt, there is less that I should report to you than you are otherwise informed about. You have been daily cognizant of what was going on in the principles with which the peace conference had to deal, and of the difficulty of laying down straight lines of settlement across or a belt on which the old lines of international relationship, even where they had not been right nor utilization, and whose very existence it was supposed had

SENTENCE GIRL FOR THEFT OF WATCHES

Marian Paulson, twenty years old, pretty Dorchester girl, today pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and larceny before Judge Dennis in the Lynn Court and was given a suspended sentence in the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn. She was ordered to pay in restitution a sum of $8.50 to Wilbur Castle No. 118 Jackson street, Lynn. $7 to police for costs and $1.50 costs to the court.

Miss Paulson was arrested by the Lynn police yesterday and held today, when she was taken to Lynn by Inspector Joseph Curry of the Lynn police. On June 27 Miss Paulson went to Lynn to visit her sister, who had been employed in Castle home as maid.

Her sister had taken another position and there was no one in the Castle home, the door of which was locked. Miss Paulson entered and took a watch and chain belonging to Wilbur Castle and another watch and chain belonging to his brother, John J. Castle.

One of the watches was recovered by the police and the other was recovered from a sailor to whom the girl had given it. The sailor in said brought out, did not know he was

Strike Costs Boston 30,000 Bunches of Bananas

Boston's banana market is out 30,000 bunches today because of a strike of the fruit handlers. The United Fruit Company's pier in Mandeville arrived here with 30,000 bunches of bananas, but was sent to another port, the company being unable to unload the fruit and not wishing the fruit to spoil on its hands.

The strike took place Tuesday during the unloading of the steamship San Jose. At noon there were 300 bunches left aboard the vessel. The men wanted to work through the noon hour at overtime wages and finish the job. The company wanted them to take the noon hour off and not working the afternoon. The men walked out and have not returned.

DEFEAT OF LEAGUE 'WOULD BREAK THE WORLD'S HEART'

By International News Service.

Washington, July 10.—The United States Senate today was given opportunity to finish the task of ending the war with Germany. President Wilson, fresh from the peace conference at Paris, laid before the Senate—authorized under the Constitution to ratify all traties—the complete text of the documen signed by the German delegates and the representatives of the allid and associated powers at Versailles.

Until that document is ratified, or rejected, the technical state of war must continue.

The President raised the issue of the League of Nations in clear and unmistakable terms. He told the Senate that the peoples of the world, "bled white," wanted a permanent peace. He warned that if the League of Nations was not created and its future assured "there must be another and a final war, and the world must be swept clean of every power that could renew the terror."

The President reviewed the changed attitude of the European statesmen toward the league and then demanded:

"They saw it as the hope of the world, and that hope they did not dare to disappoint. Shall we, or any other free people, hesitate to accept this great duty? Dare we reject it and break the heart of the world?"

FAVORED NATIONS TREATMENT ACCORDED BY GERMANY TO ALLIES

EXPERTS EXPLAIN ECONOMIC CLAUSES OF PEACE TREATY

EDITOR'S NOTE—Because of the many articles treated in the treaty of peace which has been brought back to the United States by President Wilson and submitted to the Senate for its approval there has been a wide divergence of opinion regarding the interpretation of many of the clauses. The International News Service has secured a comprehensive embodying of these clauses from the American experts which it will print from day to day, the text of which is as follows:

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1919, by the International News Service.

Washington, July 10.—Seven subjects are dealt with in the economic clauses of the treaty with Germany. They include every problem that has grown out of the war. Outstanding, however, is the fact that the American economic experts refused to make the United States nail to an iniquitous policy the confiscation of seized property.

Instead the United States in the peace settlement refused to sanction the law making body of the nations, the purpose of all property acquired from Germans. As a result the American delegation has waived the claims standing out of the sinking of American merchantmen as well as the ruthless wrecking of the submarine raids off the Atlantic coast by German submarines, can be adjusted by congress itself.

SEVEN BIG SUBJECTS.

The seven subjects dealt with in the economic sections of the treaty are as follows:

First—Commercial relations between the allied and associated powers on the one hand and Germany on the other hand, including matters relating to nationality, naturalization and consular matters and to rights of companies of the allied and associated powers in Germany.

Second—Treaties, conventions with Germany, now they are to be signed, etc.

Third—The adjustment of debts among nationals of the allied and associated powers on the one hand and German nationals on the other.

Fourth—The disposition of private property which has been sequestered in the allied countries and in Germany.

Fifth—The legal effect and the adjustment of contracts concluded prior to the war between nationals of the allied and associated powers on the one hand and German nations on the other.

Sixth—A mixed arbitral tribunal to pass upon claims against Germans for property injured or seized in Germany and to fine-tune competition with the adjustment of debts.

Seventh—Facilities in relation to industrial property and literary and artistic property in the allied and associated countries and in Germany.

ALLIES ARE FAVORED.

The economic provisions so far as they relate to commercial relations provide through stipulations, favored nations treatment by Germany to the allied and associated countries in matters relating to importation, exportation, and importation, customs, duties, restrictions on exports and imports. Free economic experts of the various allied nations. All were unanimous in undertaking to make the airship ready for departure at once.

Provisions were taken aboard and all hands were ordered on board at 11:12 p. m. Colonel William N. Hensley, American observer, who is in charge of the dirigible, left the ship at the last minute. At 11:43 the engines were started and the mooring lines cast away, that held the air giant to earth were released, and five minutes later the R-34 was off on the first stage of the British navy at her tail and the Stars and Stripes flapping proudly at the stern, headed directly away toward New York city.

New Yorkers had been apprised of her coming half an hour before by announcements in restaurants, hotels and public places where information would be first gathered. They learned into Times square and other big places as the searchlights swept the skies, waiting to pick up the Atlantic flyer's plunge.

FLIES LOW OVER NEW YORK.

It was nearly 2 o'clock before R-34 was first observed by a crowd several thousand gathered in a plaza in the Bronx. Through the blackness of the darkness sat the great, gray, silent circle nose of the dirigible appeared, and as the crowd caught sight of the silent-colored monster cries arose. She was flying quite low for above the crowd's head in front of it and was plainly heard.

As she crossed the Harlem River 1000 feet the dirigible climbed to 1500 feet and began to make certain that she would clear the tallest skyscrapers. Times square was reached a few minutes after 2 o'clock and thousands were aroused from their sleep to view at a few minutes after 2 o'clock. She was flying only 500 feet above the street and Broadway was made to the great balloon and bathed in the golden light.

On the roof of the Hotel Astor, one stood Mrs. Hensley, wife of Colonel Hensley, and their two-months-old baby. She knew, steered as the navigator of the R-34 on her eastward speed down the island and turned back toward Roosevelt Field.

The dirigible's engines were started her along at a much faster pace on the return journey to Mineola and Roosevelt Field at 1:30 and soon faded from sight.

GOOD-BY BY RADIO.

A few minutes after she was swallowed up in the darkness the radio operator at Roosevelt Field received the message:

"To the American officers, Roosevelt Field.

"Good-by. America. We thank you for your hospitality and we hope that friendly relations of the two nations continue.

(Signed) "Crew of the R-34."

At 2 a. m. Major Scott passed another message of farewell, stating everybody O. K. on board, and for England.

At 2:30 the United States naval communication bureau picked up another message from the R-34, giving instructions regarding handling of the above message.

passed by New Yorkers early this morning.

The official time of the R-34's start from Roosevelt Field at Mineola was exactly midnight. Major Scott had received a message from Washington last night warning the approach of a storm of considerable intensity from the Great Lakes. Scott decided to take no chances and ordered the crew to make the airship ready for departure at once.

Provisions were taken aboard and all hands were ordered on board at 11:12 p. m. Colonel William N. Hensley, American observer, who is in charge of the dirigible, left the ship at the last minute. BOSTON ELKS TO PORTRAY U. S. WAR HISTORY

Marchers Will Be "American Soldiers," Past and Present

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10.—The Greater Boston and New England delegates to the B. P. O. E. convention will have one of the largest representations in the victory parade this afternoon.

Marchers will portray the "American soldier from the "Days of '76" to the present. The uniforms are exact copies of those worn by soldiers, warriors from the day they fought for liberation from the British to the last battles for the liberation of the world from the threatening hordes of German autocrats.

Edward R. Sandy Chapman, of the Boston delegation, has for several years been collecting information on the American soldier, and, as a result, the Boston Elks on the parade will present an authentic history or pageant a page from American history.

Mr. Chapman, in his search for types among the Boston and New England Elks is to represent famous men in the history of America has marshalled an Elk with the classical features of Miss Liberty.

Most remarkable thing I have ever encountered," explained Chapman who was for several years identified with the theatrical profession. "At the time I was not searching for a woman to represent Miss Liberty, but while studying this man's face I was struck by the remarkable resemblance to that inspiring symbol of liberty, and after a great deal of coaxing I induced him to appear in the parade as Miss Liberty.

"He consented to pose as Miss Liberty only on condition that I would not make his name public.

"The Boston Elks were caught by surprise when they were leaving their headquarters at the Shelburne on Lake Park avenue for the parade. Special pictures are being rushed to Boston and an effort will be made to display them in Boston theatres tonight.

WILSON GIVES TREATY TO SENATE

President Presents Treaty to Senate in Open Session at Noon

The President was listened to earnestly. When he declared that his service and all the information he possessed dealing with the treaty were at the disposal of the foreign relations committee and of the Senate, the advocates of ratification nodded their approval. Harding of Ohio and Sterling of South Dakota were among the Republican Senators who applauded the statement.

Other Republican Senators, like Knox of Pennsylvania and McCormick of Illinois, were silent when the personal opponents to the League of Nations who did not join the applause.

The President's declaration that he did not intend to be present when presenting the special part between Great Britain, France and United States at this time, was received with approval by the majority of the Senators. It was recognized that there would be material opposition to this proposed treaty even from Republicans who favor the ratification of the German treaty.

Before the President began to address the Senate, the galleries began to fill with spectators, but for the most part they were unaccredited persons who had secured passes, admission to the Senate galleries being by tickets only.

The Senate was assembled by senators to their friends, and many senators offered passes issued daily to those desiring admission to the galleries.

President Wilson at the White House awaited the announcement that the Senate was ready to hear him. The Senate was called to session at 12 o'clock and prayer was offered by the chaplain, Rev. Forrest J. Prettyman, who asked Divine guidance for the Senate and the chief executive in the work they were undertaking.

The usual morning business preceded the reading of the treaty.

The reception committee consisted of Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Borah of Idaho, Brandegee of Connecticut, Hitchcock of Nebraska and Williams of Mississippi.

Vice-President Marshall, as presiding officer of the Senate, received the President and escorted him to the Senate for the purpose of the visit. The President spoke from a small rostrum erected at the desk of the reading clerk of the senate.

Every effort was made by the Capitol police to keep the crowds in order and in each gallery were secret service men and police. Urgent requests had been made upon Senators to distribute their tickets of admission only to persons known to them, as dangerous persons might gain admittance.

Members of the house privileged to the floor of the Senate, and the diplomatic corps, came into the chamber early in the day in order that they might hear the address, and many of the crowd gathered entrance to the floor were unable to secure admittance because of lack of space.

The program of the Senate, following the message of the President and the reading of the treaty of peace, was to vote that the treaty be referred to the committee on Foreign Relations and then adjourn.

PANTS' CLAIM SI VOTES.

Senator Lodge and his anti-administration associates persisted in their declaration that the members of the Senate would not agree to the ratification of the treaty unless it should be amended in many respects.

They admitted, however, that the four-power treaty would be allowed to take had not yet been agreed upon.

They declared that the President's address would not influence the course they had tentatively mapped out, and that their opposition to the acceptance, unchanged, of Article X and XI of the league covenant, of the Shantung agreement, and other provisions of the treaty, would be forcing itself on them of their own during the weeks they declared must elapse before the Senate controversy over the treaty was settled one way or another.

It was the purpose of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to which the peace treaty was to be referred immediately, to give the most exhaustive consideration to the completed text of the document in its effects before making any recommendations regarding it to the Senate, it was stated. Several Republican members of the committee said that it would require considerable time for them to even digest the multitudinous details of the treaty.

FIGHT ON RESERVATIONS.

Separation of the league covenant from the treaty, which has been repeatedly advocated by Republican Senators like Knox, of Pennsylvania, Sherman of Illinois, Johnson of California and Borah of Idaho, was conceded by less radical Senators on the Republican side to be "hopeless." The real fight would rage about proposed reservations, such as those suggested by former Senator Root, but administration leaders declared that, inasmuch as even anti-league Senators were still divided as to what those reservations should be, the fight would end in a victory for the President and his supporters.

Suddenly she lost her balance and fell landing on Dominico's shoulder. The force of the fall knocked and probably saved her life.

As it was, her head and right ear were slightly hurt. She was taken to the Haymarket Square Relief Hospital. Dominico was unhurt.

LEAGUE PLANS APPROVED BY AUSTRIANS

By International News Service.

Paris, July 10.—The Austrian reply to the allied peace terms and the allied reply to the Austrian statement were made public here today.

The Austrian communication, signed by Dr. Renner and addressed to Premier Clemenceau, first assures the allies of the sympathy of the new state of German-Austria with the idea of the League of Nations.

It points out that the present Austrian government is founded on democratic parties, the Social Democrats and Christian Socialists representing the working classes and the peasants who, under the old imperial regime could never realize their political aims.

The Austrian delegation insists that the nations among the Danube basin find it almost impossible to keep peace among themselves, and declares that a general League of Nations is and must be substituted as a power representing supreme order.

HOTEL MEN HELD IN THE FIRST 'LIQUOR' CASE

Accused of Selling Grape Juice Containing 12 Per Cent. of Alcohol in South End

The first prosecution by the federal authorities of cases sent to Boston for criminal violation of the War Time Prohibition Act came today.

Joshua Crawford, secretary of the Melbourne Company, Inc., a corporation operating the Hotel Melbourne at No. 885 Tremont street, South End, and Ernest Watters, bartender at that hotel, were arraigned before Judge George W. Anderson in the United States District Court on joint charges of selling grape wine.

The defendants, who are colored men, pleaded not guilty and were held in $500 bail for a later hearing. Bail was furnished.

The prosecution was on an information filed by Assistant United States District Attorney James A. Sutton. This charges that Policy Sergeant Mullen went into the Melbourne and bought a half-pint of grape wine of Watters, the bartender.

The information further said that when this grape wine was analyzed it was found to contain 12 per cent. of alcohol.

The complaint specifically charged Crawford and Watters with "wilfully, knowingly and knowingly" selling grape wine, which was not intended for export purposes and which was contrary to statute."

A strange feature which has developed from the seizures of beer and wines in cafes, hotels and liquor stores at Nantasket is that while beer "with a kick" has been sold, sherry wine having less than one-fifteenth of one per cent. alcohol has been proved to patrons. The wine, it is said, was advertised as being the "real thing." It is also said that, so long as the Nantasket liquor interests continue to sell this kind of wine they are of course immune from arrest and prosecution. Up to date only one man was arraigned before Judge Lloyd in the Municipal Court at Hingham. He admitted that he was found guilty and sentenced to a month's imprisonment, but was allowed to go on three years' suspended sentence. Two others arrested yesterday were released on $500 bail each for appearing the customary four hours in a cell and signing a waiver which naturally included bail and guilt.

MOTHER BEGINS STRUGGLE TO SAVE YOUNG NEW FROM GALLOWS

SLAYER OF GIRL IN FRENZY

Paces Cell in Agony as He Is Denied Last Look at Face of Sweetheart

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—While Harry S. New, Jr., confessed slayer of Freda Lesser, his sweetheart, paced his cell in mental agony, his mother, Mrs. Lulu Burger, arrived in Los Angeles from Indianapolis to fight until the last to save her son from the gallows.

Mrs. Alice Lesser, the mother of the girl, is reported to be in a state of total collapse. While the mother of the slayer rushed to his defense, the mother of the slain girl was in such a state of prostration that she was unable to attend the funeral services for her daughter.

Accompanied by the chief of officers to permit him to see the girl's body for the last time, and refusing to face his mother, New underwent a mental torture that brought him to the verge of collapse.

MET BY HER SISTER.

Mrs. Burger left the train at Pasadena, where she was met by her sister, Miss Elsa Chaney Neal, a half-sister. She visited her home in Glendale and then came to Los Angeles by automobile. She went at once to the office of John L. Richardson, New's attorney, where preparations were made for her to visit her son.

"Harry wasn't sane when he did this," said Mrs. Burger. "I will fight to the last to save him from the gallows."

Mrs. Burger repeated her claim that the slayer is the son of Senator Harry S. New of Indianapolis, and voiced the belief that the Senator will come to New's defense.

HAS FAITH IN SENATOR.

Senator New has never denied that Harry is his son, it is said.

"If you have seen his statements regarding this case you will notice that he has been careful not to deny that he is Harry's father," said Mrs. Burger. "He is not the kind of a man to shirk responsibility.

"I am positive the Senator will come to Harry's defense. Perhaps it won't be directly, but he will help. He has the biggest heart in the world and he cares a lot for both of us."

Mrs. Burger said she met Senator New at the same convention years old and fell in love with him. They lived together for years, she said.

"There was nothing so sacred to me in the world as our love," she said, "she was always good to me. Harry was four years old when the Senator and I separated."

LONDON BEAUTY SUICIDE: LEAVES DEATH NOTE

Mrs. Arthur Eliot, Formerly Mrs. Mabel Atherton, Who Had a Most Sensational Career.

BOLT FROM SKY HITS HOUSE IN DORCHESTER

Thunder Showers Today and Tonight to Be Followed by Fair Weather

Thunder showers, in which at least one house in Greater Boston was hit by lightning, swept this section of Massachusetts today, and were expected to recur at intervals during the afternoon and evening, it was said this morning.

Which Mary Lane, for many years the personal maid, with the aid of a policeman broke open the door, they overturned a pile of furniture barricading it from within. On the dresser were two envelopes, one addressed to her husband, the other to a friend. Both contained but a single sheet of paper. These envelopes, it is unbroken, were handed to the coroner.

LONDON SOCIETY STIRRED.

Until these letters are opened at the inquest Friday all London society will be agog over one of the greatest sensations in years. Aside from Mrs. Keppel, who retired over the coterie at King Edward's court, no women in England during the last quarter of a century has so stirred the circles in which beauty and the unconventional heresy ruled life's sterner rules are requisites.

Up to the very hour of her self-imposed death, Mrs. Atherton preserved, unsullied in time or hard circumstance, that beauty and unfathomable feminine fashion which once caused Kitchener to exclaim to friends, "Women and flies follow an army, and both are dangerous."

Mrs. Arthur Eliot, the former Mrs. Mabel Atherton, known as a "fascinating distributor of society," was forty-eight years old.

Certain exalted personages of the realm figured more than once in the inner sessions of the beautiful Englishwoman's affairs, and it was even said that royalty had interfered to smooth matters on occasion to prevent court disclosures.

NAME LINKED WITH SCANDAL.

She was Mabel, third daughter of Sir Edward Iwan Pond, K.C., married Colonel Thomas Atherton in 1892, and was divorced by him in 1906. In his suit Colonel Atherton named Captain Verde-Buller, whom Mrs. Atherton later made co-respondent. Nothing, however, came of the case. During her married life Mrs. Atherton, she went to South Africa as a nurse in the Boer War. There her name was associated with a scandal concerning a young officer, Captain Duke, who was reported to be so infatuated with her as to threaten to break his engagement to another woman. King Edward VII. is said to have intervened personally in the case of the Friends of Irish Freedom have prepared a resolution copies of which are to be sent to the President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House, the President of the Senate and the chairmen of the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate and House against "Article X" in particular of the League covenant.

STEAM TRAINS PACKED; RESULT OF 'L' RAISE

New Ten-Cent Trolley Fare Drives Patrons to Railroad Lines

Railroad stations along the lines in suburban Boston today were thronged with unaccustomed crowds, and ticket agents and conductors worked overtime to take care of the traffic. Many have adopted the steam train as a means of transportation, following the raise to ten cents of the fare on the Boston Elevated.

People who have always patronized the 'L' and who objected several months to railroad stations today rather than pay the extra two cents demanded by the Elevated. The result was that all those serving the suburbs were crowded.

These crowds, in the opinion of railroad men, will grow during the next few days until a substantial increase in suburban travel by railroad will result.

The Boston & Albany road reports an unaccustomed crowding today on trains from Brookline and Allston. The outgoing trains to these points certainly were crowded, and these extra cars will be put on the trains tomorrow and kept there as long as the business continues.

On the Boston & Maine greatly increased business was evident on main line stations as far out as Waltham and from all the somerville stations on the Southern Division.

SHORT HAULS DECREASE.

Many former patrons of the Elevated from South Boston walked over today in spite of the rain and a noticeable decrease in short rides was evident, many people walking for a few blocks, whereas formerly they rode.

A newsboy stationed at Park street told the American that he had already noticed a great loss in business because people who under the eight cent fare bought a paper for the extra two cents now went without the paper.

Today's jump of two cents has been made necessary, in the opinion of the trustees of the Elevated, to take care of the deficit in the books of the company and to provide service at cost.

Proposals to make the fare nine cents were discarded by the trustees because they were unwise if not unlawful, as the average cost of carrying a passenger under existing conditions is more than nine cents, it has been announced. Under the eight-cent fare there was a loss last December of 1½ per cent.

PROPOSES ZONE SYSTEM.

A ray of hope for those living near the city broke through the clouds of gloom when Representative Joseph Donnell filed in the House an order for the Elevated to institute a zone system and that the matter be committed on Rules. Meanwhile the straight ten-cent fare is in operation, and the public is getting used to paying it. From the viewpoint of the commuter was the greater case in hoarding cars.

Everybody knows that under the old system few people supplied themselves with metal "tokens" and at stops where a number of people are waiting for a car much discomfort has been the result of waiting while conductors made change. Right cents was a odd amount and few people had the right change.

PASSAGES PUSS CROWDED.

Today under the ten-cent fare much of this blocking of passageways was avoided. Most everybody had a dime and on the old days everybody had a nickel. There was less difficulty in boarding cars and therefore less waste of time.

The mechanism of the 1,500 coin boxes on the system had been changed to register dimes and three coin boxes will be kept as in earlier days.

The future of street car fares in Boston, according to the trustees, is brighter and they look for a less difficult handling. Gradual improvement of the service and gradual reduction of the fare are predicted in the future, to normal conditions following the close of the war.

AGED SUFFERER TELLS OF CURE BY HICKSON

James Miller, the First to Publicly Announce of Help Received From Healer

I know I'm cured. I never felt better. I had faith in him and knew God would help me."

The speaker was James Miller, who came from Maine today to receive the ministrations of James Moore Hickson, the "Christian Healer" at St. John the Evangelist's Church on Bowdoin street, West End.

Miller is a tall man, more than six feet in height. His case was the most remarkable since Hickson started his healing clinics in Boston.

Miller's statement that he was cured was practically instantaneous.

He had been suffering from a nervous trouble which interfered with his digestion, and he said that as soon as Hickson touched him with his magic fingers he felt relieved. It was not long before he was publicly announced to be cured.

Miller read about Hickson in the newspapers and he decided to attend. Friends in Watertown while awaiting his arrival in the city, had secured for him a place in the line, and approaching the office rail with other sufferers, Miller was soon in the presence of Mr. Hickson and placed his hands on Miller temporarily relieving him.

EAGER TO TELL.

When the man from Maine left the church he was supremely happy and eager to tell how much better he felt. He said:

"I know I'm better. I've suffered for years from some complaint in my breathing. I knew God would help me. I said so this morning when I left the house. I got nervous when the car stopped today and got my pulse first at the rail.

"I know I'm cured. Today I've eaten for the first time I had that trouble and nervousness. When some one touched me a short time ago and said, 'You go and see the good man who is healing,' I just made up my mind I would.

"I've worked hard all my life in a lumber camp when I had trouble with my breathing and consulted seven doctors, but they all told me different.

"I know the Lord is good to me today. For the whole life have I felt sure certain that he is caring me. I worry too much at times. This is the first time I've gotten up and felt well. This is all I can say about it."

LARGER CROWD PRESENT.

A larger crowd was present today at the service in the church. Long before the hour of opening the front pews were filled. More children curtained in the new Hickson pews, each of them being carried by parents, and the Rev. C. W. Lyon, rector of St. Peter's Church, Salem, carried his son to the altar into the church. He has been a great sufferer from paralysis, we are told.

Mr. Hickson opened the mission with a few remarks after several prayers were said by one member of the Cowley Brotherhood, who urged upon all present that they should confess to God and that only. Let this would be a help to them.

Mr. Hickson in speaking of the mission referred again to what it meant and then made an extemporaneous prayer in which he prayed for children far away from this city, news of whose condition had reached Mr. Hickson by telegrams.

One of the touching part of his prayer, Mr. Hickson prayed for the children for whom the doctors had given up. The whole congregation were called upon to kneel, and when Mr. Hickson concluded, a fervent amen was said.

MOTHER WITH DUMB CHILD.

A poor mother with a dumb child sat on the steps leading to the sanctuary, imploring passersby that she might get a cure for her child. She made her requests in broken English. Another mother, Mrs. Cupelia Rabito, of 20 Prince street, Revere, city, brought her young son who was run over by a team, injuring part of his head.

"I want my boy cured," she said, "He's been sick all the time. He can not do anything. I go to doctors and they say 'No,' cos' if something could be done for him."

The name and address were taken and Mr. Hickson will do all in his power for this afflicted mother.

Many women and men were carried and placed in pews nearest the chancel rail. So anxious were the people to receive a cure that they crowded this rail in such numbers that Mrs. Hickson stepped in his ministrations and asked them if they would not be seated until their time came.

The clergymen assisting today were Rev. Smith Dexter, rector of Trinity Church, Concord, and the Rev. Henry Lodge, rector of Grace Church, Medford. The Sisters of St. Anna were present, taking the names of applicants, so as to follow up many of the cases in their own homes.

Many of the people were seeking for advice. Some came asking to be cured of some bad habit, others for the most first make an appointment with Mr. Hickson, who will tell them when to come. Newspaper men were given the names of those seeking cures who could not write, the English language and handed them to one of the ushers.

RIFLE PRODUCE WAGON IN OWNER'S ABSENCE

While the driver of a produce wagon was making a delivery to a house in Andrew square, South Boston, early today, thieves rolled the wagon of twenty dozen eggs and fifteen pounds of butter. The wagon was one of C. H. Mudgett & Co.'s, 42 Fulton street, Boston, and was being driven by Mr. Mudgett, head of the concern. There have been several robberies in Andrew square within the past few weeks, and residents of that neighborhood say inadequate police protection is responsible for the numerous thefts.

Oil King 'Tips' Hotel Help With Shining Five Cent Pieces

Greenfield, July 10.—A billionaire "blowing" himself by giving away nickels.

That was the spectacle John D. Rockefeller, the world's richest man credited with an income of considerably over a million a year, presented here today.

Mr. Rockefeller's financial shrewdness deserted him for a minute during his money spree. He saw to it nominally that the bell boys, waitresses and townspeople received fifteen nickel each. A local picture man was said today he anticipated a fine business when the recipients had the evidence of Rockefeller munificence framed.

Mr. Rockefeller, accompanied by his son, John D., Jr., and Percy Rockefeller, his brother, with a party of sixteen, which arrived here from Lenox last night, left the Weldon Hotel today for the financier's summer home at Seal Harbor, Me., in a driving rain.

Before leaving the hotel, however, he suddenly confronted with loose nickels in the pockets of his coat.

John D., Jr., who appeared to be personally conducting the expedition, which was undertaken in celebration of his father's birthday, said there would be no stops between this city and Bangor. The Rockefeller party had during its tour of Massachusetts, however, recorded something of the curiosity extended in other lands prior to royalty. In Pittsfield extra police were detailed and plain clothes men were on duty to see that the oil kings's suite was not impeded in its progress, for cranks allowed to get close to the machines.

The said oil king was apparently in the best of health as he left the limousine in his automobile when they were all ready for the road today. He was cheerful and chatty, shook hands with those who got near enough to him, and posed obligingly for his photographs.

He still had a large reserve stock of the nickels and mothers after he passed out the tokens to everybody in sight. Indications on the Seal Harbor estate are evidently slated for a five-cent shower when the master of the manor gets home.

GETS TWO YEARS FOR RAISING $1 TO $10 NOTES

East Cambridge Youth Sentenced to Plymouth County House of Correction

John Philip Artemis, aged twenty, of Harvard street, Cambridge, who was arrested a few weeks ago on complaint of Secret Service Agent Owen P. McKenna on a charge of raising $1 Federal Reserve notes to $10, was sentenced to the House of Correction by the Federal Court to serve two years at the Plymouth House of Correction.

Artemis, who was born in Greece and has been in this country only five years, pleaded guilty.

Attorney Joseph Lewis, who represented Artemis, told the court he thought that because of his youth he should be sentenced to either Deerfield jail, the East Cambridge jail or the Bridgewater House of Correction.

Previous to sentence Assistant United States Attorney Goldberg, who handled the case for the government, informed the court that Artemis was arrested in New York last April on a similar charge, and on the last month, when a shotgun he committed the offence for which he was sentenced in East Cambridge. Fitzgerald, Walsh and Agent Owen of the Cambridge Secret Service agents arrested Artemis and seized one of the notes which were used in raising Federal Reserve notes.

It is expected that after Artemis has served his term at Plymouth New York authorities will come after him.

FIND MISSING BOY SCOUT THROUGH THE AMERICAN

Through seeing a photograph published in the Boston American, Dorothy Chase, 14, of Revere, is located David Shea, the Scientific Boy Scout who disappeared from his home on June 22. The boy was discovered on the farm of William Johnson of North Waterboro, Me.

Patrick Ward, a farmer living on the Silas road near Yarmouth, turned over to Deputy Sheriff Frank Hall of Arrowsic and said, pointing to Shea's photograph: "That boy was here yesterday looking for work. He said his name is the same boy. He must be somewhere about here now." That evening the deputy found young Shea on the Johnson farm. He will be returned to Revere.

BURGLARS RAID KITTERY POINT, FOOL POSSE

While the Town, Armed to the Teeth, Awaited Them They Operated Two Miles Away

Kittery, Me., July 10.—While this town was alert and armed to the teeth, with rifles, muskets handy and watch dogs tugging at leashes, the gang of burglars that has been terrorizing this section for months sidestepped and tried their hand at Kittery Point, two miles distant, where nobody suspected they would go.

They invaded stores and dwellings where occupants slept and escaped with much loot. Meanwhile an armed band of regular and special officers, men and volunteers were on the lookout in Kittery proper and their verbal explosions were hardly printable when they learned today about the capture of the buildings in Kittery Point.

"Likely as not," said the chief of police, "if we establish a cordon of sentries at the Point tonight they'll be over in Portsmouth."

STREETER PUTS WITNESSES ON HOT GRILL

Dittemore's Counsel Charges That Christian Science Directors Made Lax Reports

Charges were made in the Christian Science hearing today that important meetings of the board of directors of the church have been in the past recorded inaccurately, incompletely and in such a way as to conceal rather than reveal what transpired at these conferences of the supreme governing body.

General Frank Streeter of Concord, N. H., counsel for John V. Dittemore, sternly getted on the struggle between the directors and trustees of the church publication society, made the charges. His clearest mental powers were exercised in attempting to elicit admissions from the directorate.

The information was subsequently drawn from the witnesses by the questioning of Attorney Dodge, who first hinted its purpose in cross-examination of Charles H. Wyman, secretary of the board of directors since June, 1917, and then appointed clerk as well.

SAYS SYSTEM "IMPROPER."

General Streeter interlarded his cross-examination with declarations that the recording system was "improper" and "not adequate" at important meetings lasting two hours were discussed of in a single line. He specified the historic meeting of February 10, 1918, when friction developed. The meeting is covered in the records with the statement that "the directors had a meeting which lasted two hours and adjourned."

Secretary Jarvis testified that it was his purpose to go into the meeting rather fully for at least half of the meeting, but he did not record discussions.

Q—Then these records of yours (producing records) do not accurately reflect the meeting? A—Not the discussions, only the action.

Q—Do your records record all the actions? A—I have tried to answer definitely. Are all the votes taken shown here? A—I cannot answer that. Witness later said, "I should say they have been."

Q—Then you say that all the votes taken by the board should be shown, unless they have been deleted by unanimous consent, a privilege enjoyed by directors alone.

Q—Your hearing can't be good. Did you hear me say anything about deliberative bodies. A—My hearing is good, sir.

ANSWERS WITH HEAT.

Q—Are you sure that all acts of the directors, if not deleted, appear here? A—I should say yes, if I might, be given a chance to explain.

Q—Without explaining, the answer was ordered to stand.

Q—How frequently since 1915, when the first car of the season's vote been deleted? A—I could not say, for sure, of every.

Q—How often it never has been done? A—Occasionally, and with those beings that tend today to tell you the truth without reservations.

EXPLAINS AND DEFENDS WORK OF PEACE CONFERENCE

FOREBODING OF DISASTER.

"The hearts of men were sick against the day, and their minds grew faint with fear for the outcome of affairs. Men everywhere were counting the days overdue before their armies should come back to their homes and their families, as they had been promised they would come when the object for which they fought was attained. Their thoughts had been taken off the common round of their daily life and fixed upon the issues of death and terror they had been facing month after month, and they were impatient to have it all come to an end. They had been casting up their accounts and counting the human cost of the war, and it had been appalling. Now they wished to set their minds free of the load of it all. They were longing to think of the happy things that had been lost sight of so long. Peace had become their heart's desire.

GREAT MORAL FORCE.

"The moral force of the whole world was concentrated in meeting these things which faced Paris—and Paris was the symbol of France, and France of the free peoples of the world. The moral force of those spirited men spoke of something more than bodily force. They carried the great ideals of a free people in their hearts, and with that vision were unconquerable. Their very presence brought reassurance, their coming made victory certain.

"They were recognized as crusaders and as their thousands swelled to millions, their strength rose with each day's valiation. And they were fit men to carry out such hope and mood—the generation of forecast. Finer men never went into battle, nor men better worthy of them. This is not the occasion upon which to offer a eulogy of America and the American people, but I must say that the Germans have to be told sometime or other what it was that we have done to thrust such men as these into the midst of their power was no confident hope.

"Anyone men and women looking back upon the days of the consecration of the Fourth of August, 1914, will be able to see that the whole world was in travail and that no heart was free from fear. Men's minds were filled with apprehension and their hearts with hope. The air was electric with the sense that something great was at hand, something that would either purify or utterly destroy. Men were conscious of the spiritual solidarity of the human race and shamed by the sense of their apparent powerlessness to prevent the universal disaster which impended. Everywhere assemblies were being held to concert action to save the states and the world, but overwhelmingly the vast bodies of opinion expressed themselves in vain. Governments were confounded and disconcerted by the very depth and volume of the unspoken thought which came to them from their constituents. Only thought counted. Only the voices of those who had the vision and the touch with the general heart of humanity could be heard above the confusion of the time.

THEY WERE TERRIBLE IN BATTLE.

"They were terrible in battle and gentle and helpful out of it, remembering the mothers and the sisters, the wives and the little children at home. They were free men under arms, remembering their ideals of duty in the midst of tasks of violence. I am proud to have had the privilege of being associated with them and of calling myself their leader.

"But I speak now of what they meant to the men to whose aides they came. It was a people who, without thought of self or profit, by and those would not always be honorably brushed aside. It was not easy to get their orders from the old and some of the fruits of the grafting may, I fear, for a time, be theirs. But, with very few exceptions, the men who set with us at the peace table desired as sincerely as we did to get away from the bad influences, the disgraceful purposes, the demoralizing ambitions, the international counsels and expedients out of which the sinister designs of Germany had sprung as a natural growth.

"It was our privilege to formulate the principles which were accepted as the basis of the peace, but they had been accepted not because we had to come in to hasten and assure the victory, but because they were readily accepted to be the principles to which honorable and enlightened minds everywhere had been bred. They spoke the conscience of the world as well as the conscience of America, and I am happy to say that there was a ready gratitude to the able, forward-looking men, with whom it was my privilege to co-operate, for their unfailing spirit of co-operation. Their constant effort to accommodate the interests they represented to the principles we were all agreed upon.

ENTANGLEMENTS IN WAY.

"And the composition of what they stood for was upon us who represented America at the peace table. It was our duty to see to it that every decision we took part in reached so far as we were able to influence it, to quiet the fears and realize the hopes of the peoples who had been living in that shadow, the nations that had come for our assistance to their rescue. It was our duty to do everything that it was within our power to do to make the true purpose of freedom and of right a lasting triumph in the assurance of which the weak might everywhere live without fear.

"Old entanglements of every kind stood in the way, entanglements which governments had made to one another in the days when might and right were confused and the power of the victor was without limit. Territory was demanded and contemplated and dispositions of territory, and extensions of sovereignty that left out entirely regard to the interest of those who had the power to insist upon them, had been entered into without thought of what the peoples concerned might wish or profit by; and those would not always be honorably brushed aside. It was not easy to get their orders from the old and some of the fruits of the grafting may, I fear, for a time, be theirs. But, with very few exceptions, the men who set with us at the peace table desired as sincerely as we did to get away from the bad influences, the disgraceful purposes, the demoralizing ambitions, the international counsels and expedients out of which the sinister designs of Germany had sprung as a natural growth.

"It was our privilege to formulate the principles which were accepted as the basis of the peace, but they had been accepted not because we had to come in to hasten and assure the victory, but because they were readily accepted to be the principles to which honorable and enlightened minds everywhere had been bred. They spoke the conscience of the world as well as the conscience of America, and I am happy to say that there was a ready gratitude to the able, forward-looking men, with whom it was my privilege to co-operate, for their unfailing spirit of co-operation. Their constant effort to accommodate the interests they represented to the principles we were all agreed upon.

DIFFICULTIES WERE MANY.

"The difficulties, which were many, lay in the circumstances, not often in the men. Almost without exception the men who led and caught the true and full vision of the problem of peace as an indivisible whole, a problem, not of mere adjustments of interest, but of justice and right action.

"The atmosphere in which the conference worked seemed created, not by the ambition of strong governments, but by the hopes and aspirations of small nations and of peoples hitherto under bondage to the power that victory had shattered and destroyed.

"The great empires had been forced into political bankruptcy, and we were the receivers. Our task was not only to make peace with the central empires and consider the ranges their armies had done. The central empires had acted in open violation of many of the very rights for which the war had been fought, dominating alien peoples over whom they had no natural right to rule enforcing, not obedience, but veritable bondage, exploiting those who were weak for the benefit of those who were masters and overlords only by force of arms.

"There could be no peace until the whole order of Central Europe was set right.

NEW NATIONS DEMANDED.

"What meant that new nations were to be created, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary itself. No part of ancient Poland had ever to any true sense become a part of Germany, or of Austria, or of Russia. Bohemia was alien in every thought and hope to the monarchy of which she had so long been an artificial part; and the unjust partnership between Austria and Hungary had been one rather of interest than of kinship or sympathy.

"The Slavs, whom Austria had chosen to force into her empire on the south, were kept to their obedience by nothing but fear. Their hearts were with their kinsmen in the Balkans. These were all arrangements of power, not arrangements of natural union or association.

It was the imperative task of those who would make peace and make it intelligently to establish a new order which would rest upon the free choice of peoples rather than upon the arbitrary authority of Hapsburgs or Hohenzollerns.

"More than that, great populations bound by sympathy and actual kin to Rumania were also linked against their will to the condemnate Austro-Hungarian monarchy or to other alien sovereignties, and it was part of the task of peace to make a new Rumania as well as new Slavic State clustering about Serbia.

COLONIES EXPLOITED.

"And no natural frontiers could be found in these new fields of adjustment and redemption. It was necessary to look constantly forward to other related tasks.

"The German colonies were to be disposed of. They had not been governed; they had been exploited merely without thought of the interest or even the necessary human rights of their inhabitants.

"The Turkish empire, moreover, had fallen apart, as the Austro-Hungarian had.

"It had never had really unity. It had been held together only by pitiless, talisman force. Its people cried aloud for release, for succor from unspeakable distress, for all that the new day of hope seemed at last to bring within its reach. Peoples hitherto in utter darkness were to be led out into the same light and given at last a helping hand. Undeveloped peoples and peoples ready for development but not yet ready to assume full responsibilities of statehood were to be given adequate guarantees of friendly protection, guidance and assistance.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES.

"And out of the execution of these great enterprises of liberty sprang opportunities to attempt what statesmen had never found the way before to do, an opportunity to throw safeguards about the rights of racial, national and religious minorities by solemn international covenant, an opportunity to effect a complete and systematic internationalization of waterways and railways which were necessary to free economic life of more than one nation and to clear many of the natural channels of commerce of unfair obstruction of law or of privileges, and the very welcome opportunity to secure for labor the contented protection of definite international pledges of principle and practice.

"These were not tasks which the conference looked about it to find and went out of its way to perform. They were inseparable from the settlements of peace. They were thrust upon it by circumstances which would not be overlooked. The war had created them. In all quarters of the world old-established relationships had been disturbed or broken and affairs were at loose ends, nothing to be mended or united again, but only to be made over. They had to be set right by applying some uniform principle of justice or enlightened expediency and they could not be adjusted by merely piecemeal in a treaty what should be done. New states were to be set up which could not hope to live through their first period of weakness without assured support of the great nations that had consented to their creation and existence for them their independence.

REFORMS FOR COLONIES.

"Ill-governed colonies could not be put in the hands of governments which were to act as trustees for their peoples and not as their masters if there was to be no common authority among the nations to which they were to be responsible in the execution of their trust. Future international conventions with regard to the control of waterways, with regard to illicit traffic of many kinds, to arms or to deadly drugs or with regard to the adjustment of many varying international administrative arrangements could not be assured if the treaty were to provide no permanent common international agency. If its execution in such matters was to be left to the slow and uncertain processes of cooperation by ordinary methods of negotiations. If the peace conference itself was to be the end of consecutive authority and common counsel among the governments to which the world was looking to enforce justice and give pledges of an enduring settlement, regions like the Saar Basin could not be put under a temporary administrative regime which did not involve a transfer of political sovereignty and which contemplated a final determination of its political connections by popular vote to be taken at a distant date; no free city like Danzig could be created which was, under elaborate international guarantees, to accept exceptional obligations with regard to the use of its ports and exceptional relations with a state of which it was not to form a part; properly safeguarded plebiscites could not be provided for where populations were at some future date to make choice what sovereignty they would live under; no certain and uniform method of arbitration could be secured for the settlement of anticipated difficulties of final decision with regard to many matters dealt with in the treaty itself.

WILSON CALLS UPON UPPER HOUSE FOR PROMPT RATIFICATION

The long continued supervision of the task of reparation which Germany was to undertake to complete within the next generation might entirely break down. The reconsideration and revision of administrative arrangements and restrictions which the treaty prescribed, but which it was recognized might not prove of lasting advantage or entirely fair if too long enforced, would be impracticable.

The promises governments were making to on eanother about the way in which inlsor was to be dealt with, by law not only but in fact as well would remain a mere humane theala if there was to be no common tribunal of opinion and judgment to which liberal statesmen could resort for the influences which alone might secure their redemption.

A league of free nations had become a practical necessity.

Examine the treaty of peace and you will find that everywhere throughout its manifold provisions its framers have advanced from day to day from one stage of conference to another that it became evident to them that what they were seeking would be little more than something written upon paper to be interpreted and applied by such methods as the chances of politics might make available if they did not produce a means of common counsel which all were obliged to accept, a common authority whose decisions would be recognized as decisions which all must respect.

And so the most practical, the most skeptical among them turned more and more to the league as the authority through which international action was to be secured, the authority without which, as they had come to see, it would be difficult to give assured effect either to this treaty or to any other international understanding upon which they were to depend for the maintenance of peace.

CONFERENCE NOT EPHEMERAL.

The fact that the covenant of the league was the first subjective part of the treaty to be worked out and agreed upon, while all else was in solution, helped to make the formulation of the rest easier. The conference was after all not ephemeral. The concert of nations set up in the treaty of peace was to be a definite, continuing body, organized upon and which all were committed to support, which could go forward with confidence to make arrangements intended to be permanent.

The most practical of the conferees were not for the most part ready to refer the league of Nations the superintendence of all interests which did not admit of immediate determination, of all administrative problems which were to require a continuing oversight. What had seemed a council of perfection had come to seem a plain council of necessity. The League of Nations was the practical statesman's hope of success in many of the most difficult things he was attempting.

That there should be a league of Nations to steady the counsels and maintain the peaceful understanding of the world, to make not treaties alone, but the accepted principles of international law as well, the actual rule of conduct among governments of the world, had been one of the assumptions accepted from the first by the associates with the Central Powers. The statesmen of all the belligerent countries were agreed that such a league must be created to sustain the settlements that were to be effected.

LEAGUE A NECESSITY.

I think there was a feeling among some of them that, while it must be attempted, the formation of such a league was perhaps a counsel of perfection which practically might prove beyond us in the world of affairs. Most were for very cautiously and with many misgivings. It was only the difficult work of organizing as all but universal adjustment of the world's affairs, and it had validated itself in the thought of every member of the conference as something much bigger, much greater even than the particular treaty they were framing, that the provision of a particular treaty might successfully be arranged that all the peoples of the world demanded of the conference that it should create such a continuing concert of free nations as would make wars of aggression and such combinations as that has just ended forever impossible.

A very bad game! From every one in every stricken land from which sons and brothers and fathers had gone forth to the great sacrifice that a sacrifice should never again be exacted. It was manifest that it should not be exacted. It had been exacted because one nation desired dominion and other nations had shown no means of defence except armaments and alliances. War had lain at the heart of every arrangement of Europe, of every arrangement of the world that preceded the war.

RESCUED PEOPLES DIED TO.

Rescued peoples had been told that lands and armies which they called to sustain them in peace must be kept below that they had been told that lands and armies had been maintained to promote national ambitions and secure war.

They knew that no old policy meant anything else but force, force—always force. And they knew that it was intolerable.

Every true heart in the world, every enlightened judgment, demanded that, at whatever cost of independent action, every government that took thought for its people or for justice or for order—free action would seem to be—to a new purpose and utterly destruct the old order of international politics.

Statesmen might see difficulties, but the people could see none and could brook no denial. The way in which they had been held to bear the horrors and lay concealed in every balance of power must not end in a mere victory of arms and a new balance.

The monster that had resorted to arms must not be left in strength that could survive broken. The united power of free nations must put it once for all in such a case that the world must be given peace. If there was not that will or the intelligence to accomplish that now, there must be another and a final war and the world must be swept clean of every people that could not accept.

The League of Nations was not merely an instrument to remedy old wrongs under a new treaty of peace; it was the only hope for mankind.

Again and again had the demon of war been cast out of the house of the peoples and the house had been swept for a treaty of peace; only to prepare a time when it could return in again with sevens worse than himself. The house must now be given a tenant who could hold it against all such.

That could complete it or make it idle, as it seemed round the new-planned League of Nations to be for the execution of present plans of peace and reparation. They saw in a new aspect before their work was finished. They saw it as the main object of the whole. As the only thing that could complete it or make it worth while. It was the hope of the world and that suggestion did not disappoint. Shall we or shall we not, peoples hesitate to accept this great duty? Dare we break the heart of the world?

And, as the result of the conference of peace, so far as Germany is concerned, stands confronted with difficulties enormously greater than those which seemed insuperable when the terms were agreed upon. Shall we, to-day, when the peoples are all but unanimous in their support of the settlements which have been effected, when the air is clear of the poisonous fumes of passion and prejudice which filled it when the treaty was framed, when the opinion of the world has had time to assert itself, when the moral judgment of mankind has had time to make its power felt, when the very men who were most active in assailing it have had time to see it in its proper perspective, when the moral force of the whole world is behind it, when the conscience of mankind is awakened and concentrated as it never was before, when the whole world sees that it is the only way to peace, when a great league organized and created as a nation, they had dreamed hesitate to accept it for the conduct of the spiritual forces that come from men of every nation from every quarter of the globe. It seems that a

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hair growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement

"PEACE TREATY NOTHING LESS THAN A WORLD SETTLEMENT"

SECURES TRIUMPH OF RIGHT AND OF JUSTICE

...ing and a new responsibility by him unlike to the great nations that as leaders and advisers would so much to set high levels of service and achievement.

The stage is set, the destiny disclosed. It has come about by no plan of our contriving, but by the hand of God, who led us into this way. We cannot turn back. We can only go forward, with lifted eyes and freshened spirit, to follow the vision. It was of this that we dreamed at our birth. America shall in truth show the way. The light streams upon the path ahead, and nowhere else.

Senate Will Ratify Treaty, Wilson Tells News Correspondents

By International News Service.

Washington, July 10.—The Senate will ratify the peace treaty, is the opinion of President Wilson. He made this very plain today in his talk with the newspaper correspondents, the first that he has had since the United States entered the war.

The President also made it plain that with the ratification of the treaty by the German National Assembly at Weimar the blockade of Germany automatically came to an end.

From now on Germany will be allowed to trade freely under the system of credits that has been adopted by the Supreme Economic Council.

The President was in an unusually happy frame of mind and showed supreme confidence that the work of the Paris peace conference would be fully satisfactory to the people of the United States. While it is not permitted to quote what he said, there is no doubt of the impression that he left with the correspondents in the interest they found in his frankness.

He declined to answer a number of purely hypothetical questions dealing with what might happen when ...

...ratification of the treaty. He declined, however, to intimate that the Senate would vote for treaty, and it was very plain that he expects the ratification to be a matter of negotiation, which he proposes to carry on in the open and with all the publicity of any reservation.

PURCHASE OF "ONE-MAN" TROLLEYS AUTHORIZED

OLD COLONY TRUST GIVES MORTGAGE OF $12,000,000

A mortgage for $12,000,000 was given by the Old Colony Trust Company of this city to the American Writing Paper Company of Hamilton, O., today. The United States revenue stamps affixed to the document were worth $240, which is probably a record. The mortgage contained fifty-one closely written pages. The formality of filing the mortgage required the presence of several men nationally known in business.

KING ALBERT HONORS ELIOT WADSWORTH

New York, July 10.—Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, until recently vice-president of the American Red Cross, has received notice that King Albert of Belgium has appointed him commander of the Order of the Crown in recognition of his services in behalf of the people of Belgium. The announcement, which came from the Belgian legation at Washington, informed Wadsworth that the decoration was a token of the personal appreciation of the King.

SIX MILK DEALERS FINED IN DORCHESTER COURT

As the result of the crusade of Captain James F. Hickey of East Boston, against autoists who fail to give proper signals and act as speed-sters on the road, seventeen motorists were today arraigned in East Boston District court before Judge Burns. Seventeen paid fines totalling $110, while the other four had their cases placed on file.

Portland, July 10.—Willard M. Marston was a model husband until he came under the influence of Mrs. Eugene W. Marston, she said, had wiped the dishes and brought home his pay every Saturday night, but now he wipes the other woman's china and exchanges his pay envelope. DISPUTE OVER TRANSFER COSTS BRIGHTON MAN $5

H. S. Gould, seventy years old, of South street, Brighton, was today fined $5 by Judge Dowd in the Municipal Court for evading the payment of an eight-cent fare on the Elevated. On July 2 he received a transfer from a surface car at Copley square to go into the subway. He walked to in front of the Hotel Brunswick and there boarded another car. The conductor refused the transfer and could refused to pay another fare. Through his attorney, Gould said he offered to leave the car, but that the conductor prevented him.

How much Turkish?

No cigarette names mentioned

There are only three kinds of cigarettes: (1) those containing Turkish tobaccos alone, (2) those containing Domestic tobaccos alone, and (3) those containing various blends of both Turkish and Domestic. We manufacture all three kinds.

Hence we have nothing to lose and everything to gain by advising you fairly and openly as to which one of these three kinds of cigarettes will probably suit you best.

"How much Turkish?" is the big question in choosing a cigarette and the more smokers we can help by this frank advice, the more steady, contented purchasers we can count on, year after year, for our various cigarettes.

Tear out this advertisement—show it to some friend.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

MANUFACTURERS OF EVERY KIND OF CIGARETTES

Are you smoking too much—or too little—Turkish?

UNTIL you find the right answer to that question, you won't get one-half of the sheer enjoyment and comfort you should get from each day's smoking.

Maybe you have the answer already.

Maybe your present cigarette is exactly the right one for you. If so, hang on to it—you're lucky and this story is not meant for you.

But, unless you are positive—unless you KNOW—that your present cigarette suits you better than any other cigarette possibly can, it will pay you well to understand this question of "How much Turkish?"

Straight Turkish vs. Domestic Tobaccos

Turkish and Domestic tobaccos are very different from each other. Turkish has a delicate, smooth flavor and a very rich, heavy aroma—Domestic has more real tobacco character, and the better grades possess what tobacco men like to call "life" or "sparkle."

Some men (comparatively few, however) can smoke straight Turkish cigarettes all day long.

Others—many of them, our records show—go to the other extreme, and prefer straight Domestic. They can't stand any Turkish at all. They find it over-rich or heavy—too much aroma.

And in between these two extremes is the big majority—the normal or average smokers.

These average smokers like the Turkish flavor—yes. But they find that Turkish tobacco is something like plum pudding or candy—awfully good, but too much is, decidedly, too much.

Turkish and Domestic —Blended

So the average smoker finds that the just-right cigarette is a happy medium—that he can smoke more often and actually get more solid pleasure out of his smoking, all day long, by choosing a cigarette which is of part Turkish and part Domestic tobaccos, combined in a good blend.

Such cigarettes are called "Turkish blend" cigarettes.

How to recognize a good "Turkish blend"

There are only two things that count in a "Turkish blend" cigarette. One is the quality of the tobaccos themselves (both Turkish and Domestic), and the other is the proper proportioning of each to each in the blending.

But while there are many "Turkish blends" on the market, it is easy for anyone to pick the good ones. Here is a simple test. If a cigarette satisfies your own requirements on these three points, it is pretty sure to be both a good blend and the right smoke for you:

First—It must give you that real Turkish flavor—but not so much of it as to be too rich or heavy.

Second—Along with this Turkish flavor, watch also for that "life" and delightful "sparkle" or that ripe, cool mellowness, peculiar to certain Domestic tobaccos.

Third—The cigarette should let your smoke appetite stay sharp and crisp so that you will relish every smoke clear up to bed-time; and whether or not you happen to smoke more heavily than usual, it should leave you feeling keen and fine.

"How much Turkish?"

So begin with this question—"How much Turkish?" You'll have to answer it yourself, for each man's taste is his own. But keep thinking about it; for when you've answered it correctly, you'll have found "your" cigarette. And we know we don't need to emphasize how much that will mean to you.

Beginning next Week

we shall resume the advertising in this paper for one of our leading "Turkish blend" cigarettes. These advertisements will tell you more about "How much Turkish?" and we feel quite certain they will interest you

DEPICTS BOSTON AS IDEAL WHEN WOMEN VOTE

Durham, N. H., July 10.—Boston citizens will go singing through the streets and children will play "Blind Man's Bluff" on the Common and in the Public Garden when women vote.

This is a picture of the ideal city election day today, by Mrs. Prue Worth White of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association. Mrs. White was addressing the "School for Women Voters" being held here at the New Hampshire State College.

Today is Democratic day, when the same invitation is extended to join the party of Bryan and Wilson and you [illegible] by Alexander Hamilton and Mrs. Antoinette Funk of Chicago.

Municipal problems as they affect future women Mayors and street cleaners was the main subject of this session today. The election of a Mayor was first discussed by Mrs. Eunice Schoonmaker of Connecticut. She spoke with great gravity.

"Ladies," she began, "when we get to voting for a Mayor, shall we vote for him as our brothers, the boys, have always voted for him? That is shall we elect our Mayor because he is awfully good looking? Shall we elect him for one of the worst reasons of all, because he is Republican or Democrat, or shall we elect him because he is awfully clever and smart in whatever we see him on the stump?"

MUST LEAVE OUT POLITICS.

Mrs. Schoonmaker's tones were of deepest religion. "Girls," she warned, "please leave out the reasons that prompt men to vote. Let us beware of them." Mrs. Schoonmaker then laid down a law. "Ladies, we don't get the best Mayor when his election is mixed with politics. When we vote, let us leave politics out of the question."

The women voters were then given a few kindergarten lessons in civics by Mrs. Schoonmaker. "For instance, when we women vote for a street cleaner why not, for a change, vote for a man who knows a little bit about street cleaning? Though, for that matter, woman is the natural street cleaner by experience and heredity."

"Yes," allowed Mrs. Trueworthy White of Boston, "and when we get elected to street cleaning positions we will invent a nice new vacuum street cleaner. It will scoop up the dirt gently and it will be a pleasure to run it over the street."

Here are some gems from the meeting about woods, political tricks "the boys" may be up to.

"The only reason for two political parties is that when one gets so bad you can't stand it any longer, why, then you can put it out and put in the other."

RIGHT TO CHANGE MINDS.

"The man voter," Mrs. Schoonmaker said, "knows everything. It is awfully nice to be born knowing it all so that you don't lose. However, the ladies are loyal. We don't know so much now as we will know when school efforts bear fruit."

"But one thing we do know. We are not going to ask our husbands how we shall vote. To form our opinions however, we can as poor ignorant women ask questions. It is our privilege. It is also our privilege as voting women to change our minds. The oftener we change them, perhaps the more of a stir we shall make in little vicious Republican nests, where gerrymandering is the golden text."

The air was rife with questions as to what was "gerrymandering." Mrs. Schoonmaker explained.

"Graft," said she, "corruption, even corruption to contentment. Better, ten politics as practised by some men and tolerated by others. The men tell me I have no right going round telling women voters naughty things about politics. It is time they knew them. We were poor voters, if we did not know, for instance, the technical terms of the game politician."

TO SING IN STREETS.

Mrs. Trueworthy White of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association had a few views of her own on the ideal city.

"The ideal city is the singing city and that's what we are going to do when we women get the vote to put the citizens to singing on the streets.

"The ideal city is the city that starts with a chorus and ends with a game of blind man's buff in the park. This last game is to be played by the children, though the grown-ups may join in when women get the vote."

Morning, afternoon and evening this school for women voters goes busily, merrily on at State College, New Hampshire. It has something of the seriousness of Sunday School, the good children, the future women voters, have learned well their golden texts. It has also something of the air of a sewing circle, where nobody's going to be fooled, where, therefore, everybody gets their heads together in earnest gossip. And it has absolutely the atmosphere of the Granite State where it is held.

Got a Slap in Jaw For Kissing His Own Wife

Worcester, July 10.—Slapped in the face by a stranger for kissing his own wife was the experience of Joseph Mayo, 28 years old, of No. 128 Canterbury street. Who did it? Henry L. Pickering did it, says Mayo and Judge Utley of the District Court let it go at that.

At 128 Canterbury street is a double house with a single hallway. Both Mayo and Pickering were visiting their respective wives who are both staying there with their respective folks temporarily.

Pickering's wife went out for a second and Pickering heard a smack in the hall. He thought it was Mrs. Pickering who was receiving this osculatory attention and rushing down stairs gave the "strange man" a Jack Dempsey in the jaw. The "strange man" was Mayo and the woman in the case was Mrs. Mayo.

The unraveling of the tale brought laughter into the usually dry and staid courtroom.

U. S. TO SELL PRISON CAMP AT LANCASTER

Lancaster, July 10.—The end of the prison camp on the Nashua river meadows, in the north part of this town, where, during the war, there were imprisoned the German sailors from interned German ships, is set for Wednesday, July 16.

On the afternoon of that day the War Department is to sell the six buildings within the prison enclosure, also shops and stables and 19 miles of barbed wire, through which electric currents played when the camp was in use.

The 160 acres of wheat planted by the prisoners last fall is approaching harvest and is in good condition.

CORNELL HEADS HEALTH MEN AT FAIRHAVEN

Fairhaven, July 10.—Representatives of the different boards of health in Bristol, Plymouth, Dukes and Barnstable counties attended the annual meeting of the Southeastern Massachusetts Association of Health Officials. The speaker during the post prandial observations was Dr. A. L. Simpson of Lowell.

The officers chosen were: President, A. L. Cornell of Dennis; vice-president, Dr. Joel P. Bradford of Acushnet; secretary and treasurer, I. W. Hallett of Barnstable.

MILITIA ORDERED OUT IN ILLINOIS STRIKE

Chicago, July 10.—Four companies of the Second Regiment, Illinois reserve militia, were ordered into uniform and told to hold themselves in readiness for a call to Argo, where serious riots occurred at the plant of the Corn Products Refining Company.

Sheriff Peters also began swearing in a large number of special deputies. Reports were received that strikers at Argo were in a sullen mood and threatening revenge for the shooting of several of their guards.

ROOSEVELT TO ATTEND GATHERING AT NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., July 10.—The date for the dinner by the Young Men's Republican Club was definitely fixed when Secretary P. Arnold received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt saying he would be glad to meet the club Aug. 4. The dinner is to be held at the Newport beach.

PREDICTS RISE OF 20 PER CENT. ON CLOTHING

Clothing will be from 10 to 20 per cent. higher in price in the next six months, and now is the time for the public to stock up before prices begin to rise.

This is the opinion of Stephen B. Chesley, general manager of the Leopold Morse Company of Chesley & Adams Square. A reporter for the American, like many others, attracted by a wool display in one of the company's windows, and the cards "Just all wool and nothing down" stamped on the prediction of Manager Chesley that the price of clothing is shortly to soar skyward.

In the Morse window is an exhibition of dressed fur, wool, finished yarn, woolen fabrics and the tailored article. The exhibition is that of the Strong-Hewat Mills, manufacturers of Virgin Woolen fabrics at North Adams.

Dresses dyed with various American-discovered dyestuffs, claimed to be as good as the best German dyed products, are shown in the window to prove that the dyestuffs are American made might indicate a patriotic motive, but not so. And the reason is according to Mr. Chesley, because of the great demand for all wool fabrics for clothing during the war.

"Women wool, while in other countries went to cotton, is going to be in demand," he said. "It is not the abundance of dyes but the dearth of wool that will cause clothing prices to go up. This time last Summer prices will be higher than they are today.

"The mills are from four to six weeks behind on the delivery of fabrics," he added. "The war has taught people a great deal, but as a thing to affect clothing we may have come to learn the difference between the real articles and what is sham. A garment may be all wool and not be as spurious as the worst of fabrics. We now understand the reason, why some so-called 'all-wool' garments do not give the wear. Technically wool garments are all wool, but actually they do not stand the 'gaff.'

Amendment to Swig's Trust Company Bill Is Offered in State Senate by Curtin

An amendment proposed to the Swig bill, so-called, which would if enacted have made all the State laws applicable to savings banks also applicable to trust companies so far as the savings departments are concerned, was offered in the State Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Curtin of Boston. The committee on banks and banking, including the Senate members of the committee on mercantile affairs, opposed the amendment.

Senator Smith, at a conference during a recess, agreed to withdraw the amendment in favor of an amendment offered by Senator Curtin, chairman of the committee, making the law provide for savings banks to have the adopted earlier in the session.

Hot Tea and Frozen Cream Very Constipating

THERE is little inclination for solid food on a hot day. Cold drinks and ices, salads and pastry form much of the diet, especially among women. This lack of wholesome variety, however, interferes with proper digestion.

The result is biliousness, listlessness, dizzy spells. The stomach could not digest nor the bowels pass off the day's strange mixture of food and drink.

A simple way of overcoming the trouble is this: If you have not already got Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the house, go to a drug store and buy a 50c or $1 bottle. Take a teaspoonful tonight before you go to bed. It will act in the morning, and immediately thereafter your bowels will be clear and that feeling of oppression will be gone.

Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts on the stomach-muscles training them to do their work naturally so that medicines can be dispensed with. It is the most widely used laxative compound in the world. That means merit.

A free sample bottle can be had by sending your address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 460 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Filene's

Women's inexpensive dresses

We can say now for the first time in weeks, PLENTY of dresses. Two lines of defense—plenty in the store, and plenty on the way

As the hands of a watch go round—

JUST as the hands of your watch go round and round, never ceasing, so does the Filene system of constantly changing stocks go on, and on, and on.

It does not need to be wound up, nor corrected, nor set going again, for the system is pretty close to the unobtainable perpetual motion.

Filene stocks are always new, due to this plan of ours which keeps things moving out, reduces prices mechanically, and brings in new things to take their places.

And now, when the rule is for stocks to become clogged with the old and passé, the Filene system is more than ever important—for in the season of OLD things it provides constant NEWNESS.

Filene values are better for this reason, they are better because of our policy of constantly trying to improve values, and they are better partly because we have separated the cost of service from the cost of merchandise.

BUT THE IMPORTANT POINT IS THAT THEY ARE BETTER.

Little girls can wear PUMPS as nice as mother's!

NEXT to playing dolls, the real ambition of any little girl from three up is to wear the kind of clothes her mother wears. Else why should she tie an apron around her waist and fuss up in mother's picture hat?

We have developed a pump for little girls with all the GOOD features of mother's, one that will look like mother's, and make a little girl feel just as proud.

A Filene rated leather pump, $4
Sizes 8 1-2 to 11

But more than that, we have developed the last, and changed the model until we have a pump that lies way up on the foot, doesn't gape, doesn't pinch, is comfy and oh! so good looking! Take a look at the picture. It doesn't do the pump justice!

SOUTH HANSON WELCOMES READ HOME

Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read, who flew the NC-4 across the Atlantic, is greeted at South Hanson by his mother, who pins a victory rose on her hero son.

18 CAMPS GET TROOPS FROM DEVENS

Camp Devens, Ayer, July 10.—Assigned to eighteen different camps for discharge, 4,210 men left this cantonment in special trains today, the largest number to leave for some time. The men arrived in camp last Saturday and Sunday from overseas and are handed in casual companies.

The work of transferring the men was accomplished under the direction of Lieutenant Dwight L. Jacobs, transfer officer, of Wellesley, and Lieutenant M. A. Quirk, assistant transfer officer, of Fall River, with the aid of seven field clerks. They attended to all the paper routine and in accomplishing their task had to labor fourteen hours a day since Saturday.

With the transfer of these men came word that no more men will be shipped to camp Meade, Jackson, Custer, Funston, Bowie and Gulethorpe, all of which will, it is understood, cease to function shortly as demobilization centres.

Preservation have been made in the artillery area for the troops on the transport President Grant, due in Boston today or tomorrow. The roster of the outfits aboard the ship and due here Saturday morning are 23d, 24th, 29th, 37th and 154th Companies Transportation Corps, less detachments, 71 officers, 100 men; 67th, 59th and 100th Depot Service Companies, less detachments, 4 officers and 778 men; 325d Motor Transport Company, 2 officers and 52 men; 25th Sanitary Squad, 1 officer and 24 men; 153th and 156th Guard Companies, 6 officers and 144 men; detachment of 339th Infantry, 20 officers and 48 men; 54th Division Camp Hospitals 41 and 85, 12 officers and 88 men; 50th Sales Unit, 1 officer and 1 men; Ordnance Casual Company No. 31, 1 officer and 50 men; Medical Department, 2d Provisional Forwarding Camp, 1 officer and 48 men.

Among these will be a large number of men who saw service in Siberia and who are listed in casual companies.

"He's the same old Al, quiet and always smiling."

That's the verdict of South Hanson on Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read, aerial victor of the Atlantic Ocean, who in the NC-4 made the first overseas flight.

Lieutenant-Commander Read paid a visit to the sleepy little Cape Cod town, where he lived part of his boyhood, and which he had not revisited for many years. He left there a small boy, and returned a world-famous aeronaut.

It was characteristic of both the town and the man that there was no demonstration. Commander Read is not fond of brass band receptions, nor was his trip to slumbering South Hanson intended to be a triumphant parade. He and his wife were simply motoring down from Boston to pay a flying visit to his mother, and incidentally to see the town where America's foremost flyman romped as a kid.

Commander and Mrs. Read drove rapidly through the little town without attracting the notice of the villagers. His mother, a sweet-faced, gray-haired woman, greeted her famous son at the home of a friend, opposite the Baptist church.

Then mother and son took a stroll through the garden, where Mrs. Read plucked a big American beauty rose and pinned it to the commander's uniform.

Meantime, in that mysterious fashion, news has of spreading, rumors of the famous flyer's visit had circulated through the little village.

"Well, if Al's in town he won't leave without seeing me," said Irwin Bryant, station agent of South Hanson, and brother-in-law of Commander Read, "because him and me was thick as peas when we was boys. Used to go swimmin' together in the ole swimmin' hole back of his home. He lived at the 'Parker House,' up there on the corner. Had a regular gymnasium fixed up inside."

Station Agent Bryant's prediction proved true. Commander Read did not leave town without paying him a visit.

BRITISH LABOR FACES NEW ERA, SAYS LEADER

[illegible] in England our workers are going to know their own industries. They realize just what each party to industry will stand to the way of better betterments and I can safely say that we will witness no more strikes because the workers are armed with detailed knowledge of the particular business in which they are employed. Are prepared to sit down at the table with the employers and settle their problems in short order.

"So far with this work of educating the workers to the fact that to the various industries [illegible] material benefit before we can hope to stand upon and even progress for desirable ends."

SUSPEND SEARCH FOR MISSING SHOE WORKER

Search for Minot W. Nunnery, the shoe worker who disappeared from his home in South Weymouth, July 1, on a statement that he intended to commit suicide, was temporarily suspended today on account of the bad weather. For two days the local police department and parties of residents have been scouring the neighborhood. Today the fire department sounded the "lost child" alarm to organize a fresh searching party, but as few responded it was abandoned.

OVERSEAS VETERAN IS SUICIDE IN VERMONT

Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., July 10.—With a revolver in one hand a bullet hole through the right temple and another in the left chest over the heart, the body of Private Martin H. Silcock, aged twenty-eight, Troop H, 1st United States Cavalry, regulars, was discovered by James Duggan, a farmer, in a shack in the rear of the ranges.

Silcock, whose home is given as Norfolk, Va., and whose address is 1450 Natural Bridge road, St. Louis, had been missing since July 5. In the pockets was $320 in bills, a gold watch and other personal property. He was an overseas veteran, having landed in New York a few weeks ago from France. He was transferred from Camp Devens here on July 2. No reason can be given for the act.

Included in this list of names of fighting Yankees, the majority of whom have already been decorated, is that of Bert Ford of the American staff, who served at the front as war correspondent for the International News Service and the Boston American.

The list of heroes will be submitted through Captain Jean Le Medicr of the French army, former liaison officer on the staff of Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole. Before leaving France Captain Le Medicr toured conferred with Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, who has displayed the greatest of interest in the list.

Many of the men have been awarded the Croix de Guerre, distinguished Service Cross or Medal, or the Belgian decoration, Ordre de Leopold. Others have received only the recommendations.

The Vigor of Swift & Company Continues Only Because of Service

The only "control" over the packing industry is the "control" that gathers about the ability to do a necessary job in the best way.

Swift & Company has reached a leading place in the industry because the size and character of the job of providing a nation's meat require the wide and thorough organization, the experience and devotion to duty, found in an institution like Swift & Company.

The moment Swift & Company ceases to perform its functions of usefulness with the greatest efficiency and satisfaction to the people, its position in the industry will vanish.

Swift & Company service is performed at a profit of a fraction of a cent per pound.

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar". It will interest you. Address Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill.

Does She "Measure Up?"

The first thing I would bear in mind [illegible] for all time. I would measure up my future mate as a doughboy measures up his pal. One who would share with you, grieve with you, fight with and for you, and if need be, die for you.

SUGAR MELTING IN 1919 WILL MAKE A RECORD

How sugar meltings by American sugar refiners this year are certain apparently to exceed 4,000,000 long tons, which will make a high record and exceed 4,000,000 tons for the first time. Meltings during the first six months of 1919 totaled about 2,000,000 tons, which is 200,000 tons more than two-thirds of the amount melted last year. The 1918 total was about 3,000,000 tons.

It is believed that American refiners will melt 1,000,000 tons of refined granulated this year by about 500,000 tons, which would represent, at the current rate of refining profit, 600 to $700,000,000 gain in gross business.

PROFIT TAKING A FORENOON FACTOR

Leather Issues a Strong Group; Crucible the Weakest Steel

By W. H. ROSS.
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, the tendency seen in light trading during the second hour. This was in part due to profit-taking but there were reports that a majority of the brokers' customers, however, they had not responded from the morning slightly.

Among the issues were Hide & and Leather common and preferred, International Agricultural Chemical common and preferred, Marine common and preferred, Pierce Arrow, Willys and Industrial Alcohol. Oils, Food Products and Texas & Pacific. They were from one to more than two points at noon.

Weakest issues included Crucible, Sugar, Acme American Can and Canadian Pacific. These had receded from one to three points. Most of the fluctuations of Crucible was the weakest steel. U. S. Steel was unchanged. The market was fairly active during the forenoon, first hour transactions aggregating about 437,000 shares.

MARKET FIRM AT OPENING.

Firm and active at the opening, the market presented no aspect differing from that which characterized the trading at the preceding close. Offerings were light and demand more than adequate to absorb them. Most of the trading and volume, the price range was more confined than for some days. Only a few issues opened at or higher for the year.

MONEY SITUATION UNCERTAIN.

The market reflected the situation existing in the money market. The recent advance of the call rate has been regular and is discounting. The announcement that the Federal Reserve Board had requested bankers in the interior not to furnish Wall Street with funds until after July 15 has been noted caused a great deal of comment. It is believed that speculation will be curbed by the action, and that there is an easier money situation. One statement from New York yesterday

MALLEY TO WAR ON WEALTHY TAX DODGERS

Warns Public That Revenue Board Will Pursue Delinquents Relentlessly

"It is the determined policy of the Internal Revenue Bureau that wealth shall not hinder the prosecution of the prosecution of wilful tax dodgers," said collector John F. Malley of the Boston district, today.

"This assertion was made in response to the cases of William A. Knight and John H. O'Brien, Boston wool merchants, who pleaded guilty of conspiracy to defraud the government of federal income taxes and upon whom eighteen months' prison sentence was imposed by the United States District Court.

"The bureau will pursue tax frauds relentlessly, continued the collector. This is the only course possible to pursue to the man who would put a premium on the common jew.

"On the other hand the return evidence to show fraud will be followed by a thorough and complete investigation, which, in many cases, will require years, will be continued until the persons involved are brought to justice. In every case presented to the facts the bureau will urge the intention of the statute of limitations.

"Those who have not met their full tax requirements should not delay another day in doing so by a voluntary offer. There is great difference between the self-discovered tax dodger and the tax dodger who is discovered by our office. The time for compromise is before discovery by a government official.

"It is our determined policy that wealth shall not influence to prevent any such dodging from taking place, and any financially able must be treated in the same way as the small wilful violator, and fraud or compromises through money will be rejected as dodgers may rightly be punished to the prison sentences imposed on Knight and O'Brien."

Proposed Tax Legislation Opens Controversy

A recent editorial in the American concerning an attempt by certain interests to dodge taxes has evoked rather an illuminating discussion between Mayor Creamer of Lynn and Mr. Philip Nichols, who represents this group of interests before the Legislature.

The proposed legislation is still pending in the House. It is very important, and in order that the controversy may be set out in full, we reprint Mayor Creamer's original letter to us, Mr. Nichols' reply and Mayor Creamer's rebuttal.

This is Mayor Creamer's first letter, which was published in the American on June 27th:

The joint Committee on Taxation has recommended a graduel distribution of the income tax to cities and towns in proportion to the State tax assessed upon them. This recommendation was sent to Senate Ways and Means. That committee has now been asked by powerful interests to substitute a measure returning one-half of the proceeds of this tax to the communities where the income taxpayer may reside, the other half to be paid into the State treasury.

This plan would increase the tax rates of industrial communities and decrease those of the "bedroom towns." It would restore some of the vicious features of the old way of taxing intangibles and would be an added incentive to legislative extravagances by increasing the fund at legislative disposal.

Mr. Nichols' reply:

Editor Boston American:

I read with interest your editorial of June 27th, entitled "Evil Features of Taxation Committee's Plan," in which you appear, however, to approve of the plan of the Committee on Taxation for the distribution of the income tax among the different towns in proportion to the State tax assessed upon them. I am afraid that you have been misled as to the real meaning of the taxation committee's bill. Under that bill the tax on earned incomes and on the income of certain classes of personal property will be distributed to the cities and towns of the State, not in proportion to their necessities or to the share of the public burdens which they bear, but in proportion to the value of their real estate and tangible personel property, or, in other words, in proportion to their wealth, and "many towns already staggering under a high tax rate will be stripped of what little they have, and the taxes collected from their inhabitants will be turned over to other cities and towns merely because such other cities and towns are already fortunate enough to possess valuable taxable real estate and tangible personel property."

Mayor Creamer's allusion to "powerful interests" is entirely uncalled for, since the only "interests" which have protested against this scheme are the duly-elected authorities of the towns which it is proposed to pauperize for the benefit of their wealthier neighbors. The communities which Mayor Creamer describes as "bedroom towns" have not been asking for the return to them of all of the income taxes assessed upon their inhabitants, but have in good faith attempted to induce the Committee on Taxation to devise some plan that would be legal in principle and equitable in result. Up to the present time, however, they have been unable to ward off the attempt of certain wealthy and prosperous cities in the central part of the State to lay hold of money to which they have not the shadow of a claim.

I think that if you would give the facts of this matter careful study you would not allow yourself to be used to support the unfair and un-American plan of the Committee on Taxation.

June 27. PHILIP NICHOLS.

Mayor Creamer's rebuttal:

Editor Boston American:

In reply to the assertions made by Mr. Philip Nichols in his letter to you of June 27th, I would first deny his statement that under the bill of the Committee on Taxation "many towns already staggering under a high tax rate will be stripped of the little they have, and the taxes collected from their inhabitants will be turned over to other cities and towns, merely because such other cities and towns are already fortunate enough to possess valuable taxable real estate and tangible personal property."

The exact contrary is the fact. Under the present method of distributing the revenues derived from earned incomes and the incomes from intangibles, many of these towns to which he alludes and which are largely if not wholly residential, have had tax rates ranging from two dollars and a half ($2.50) to twelve dollars ($12.00) per thousand, while towns said by him to be "already fortunate enough to possess valuable taxable real estate and tangible personal property"—that is, our manufacturing cities and towns—have had tax rates ranging from twenty dollars ($20) upward; clearly not a healthy economic situation.

Under the plan submitted to the Committee on Taxation by Mr. Nichols himself these income tax revenues would have been distributed according to the residence of the taxpeyer, still further accentuating this situation; furthermore, making it possible for large holders of intangible property, like stocks and bonds, and men with incomes earned in our manufacturing cities and towns, to forgather to such an extent in suburban residential communities as to escape taxation entirely on their real estate and tangible personalty therein owned, local expenses being met entirely by moneys received from income tax revenues thus distributed, perhaps even a dividend paid to such fortunate individuals instead of taxes being assessed on them, except on their incomes.

Mr. Nichols forgets, apparently, that the incomes received by the residents of the so-called "bedroom towns" are seldom earned therein, and that justice warrants the distribution of the taxes on such incomes to the communities where such incomes are earned, if it be possible to so distribute them.

The bill of the taxation committee comes as near this as is feasible. It is well to remember that the property earning income in question is protected not by the community where the taxpeyer resides, but either by the State or the municipality where the taxpayer does business. Mr. Nichols speaks of public necessity. Let me remind him that public necessity demands that we foster our manufacturing interests, not our "bedroom towns." Mr. Nichols also speaks of public burdens. Let me remind him that they rest principally upon the community where the money is earned and not where it is spent.

Let me remind him further that the most powerful interests in this State are perhaps those which earn the largest incomes, and that the gentlemen representing these powerful interests seldom live where their incomes are earned.

July 8. WALTER H. CREAMER.

DEAR K. C. B.—I am a boy nine years old and I have a dog two years old. LEAGUE OF LANDLORDS

Back Bay realty concern has warned its tenants that any of them "notifying the Board of Health of any nuisance will be served with a legal notice to vacate."

Happy thought! Carrying this idea of repression to its logical conclusion, it is suggested that the following rules and regulations might be added for the Suppression of Cruelty to Landlords:

HOW TO MAKE TENANTS BEHAVE

1—In case of fire write to the landlord. Any tenant calling the fire department will be ejected—if the house is left standing.

2—Dying on the premises is strictly forbidden. Any tenant caught dead will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

3—Tenants shall drink the landlord's health at least once a month. In view of the scarcity of inspiring liquors, pure water will do.

4—Any tenant having meat for dinner more than once a week shall be subject to a 10 per cent. increase in rent.

5—Shooting at burglars is strictly forbidden. You might injure the landlord.

6—Any tenant being murdered must file a notice with the landlord before calling the police.

7—No improvements will be made. Tenants improving in health do so at their own risk.

8—Tenants having charge accounts will be required to send their bills to the landlord for inspection.

9—No gambling allowed—unless a percentage is taken out for the house (landlord).

10—Male tenants shall consult the landlord before voting.

* * *

BURGLARS WILL SAY SO.

District Attorney Swann of New York seeks to have burglar alarms abated as a public nuisance. The Burglars Self-Help and Mutual Aid Society agrees. Like the locks on safes, they form a combination in restraint of trade.

ONE-WAY BANK

There are banks and banks. David Lops of the Boston schooner Anna was on lookout duty aloft on the foremast, watching for swordfish. The Anna lurched. Lops' wallet, with $88, bounced out of his pocket and into the sea. It sank. This took place on the Georges Bank. The case now rests in the bank, but with no chance of withdrawal.

RIP VAN WINKLE AWAKES

A chap telephoned the Sporting Editor from Narragansett Pier Tuesday, asking how the Willard-Dempsey fight came out.

WHAT WOULD YOU PAY TO BE FREE?

Multi-Millionaire Is Giving $100,000 a Year for Liberty Which Enabled Him to Wed Dancer

HOW much is it worth to be free from marital ties?

Or, to put it in another way, how much would it be worth to you to cast off all "entangling alliances" and wed the girl of your heart?

Lyman B. Kendall, multi-millionaire Wall street operator, evidently thought it worth a great deal, for he is paying $100,000 in alimony every year for the liberty which enabled him to wed Miss Betty Lee, a pretty little Southern dancer. And he has also given his first wife two mansions, in New York and Bar Harbor, which are estimated to be worth no less than $4,500,000!

How he got the divorce, and why; what Mrs. Kendall No. 1 thought about it—you'll find in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

And then there is the Billie Carleton mystery, which grows more mysterious, more enthralling as the evidence of the case is little by little unfolded. America is intensely interested in the life and death of this young English actress, found dead from drugs in her luxurious apartment on the morning following London's famous Victory Ball. You will want to read this instalment of the Carleton death inquest.

A new, ingenious method of victimizing picture bigers has just come to light. Did you ever suspect that the "old master" in your wealthy friend's salon may be half genuine, half fake?

There is that possibility, and Sunday's Advertiser tells you how this swindle has been perpetrated many times in fashionable homes.

If you were a talented actress, but unable to rise in your profession because the star was jealous and wanted all the applause to herself, would you ever think of appearing on the stage some evening with a beauty spot—and a real one at that—displayed on your left hip? At any rate, that's what Lady Cholmondeley did—and it started her on her triumphal career.

"Open air dresses"—light weight creations for your Summer vacation days, are the subjects of Lady Duff Gordon's article this week. Lady Duff-Gordon, you remember, is the famous "Lucille" of London. Three of her late Summer models will appear for your instruction, too.

Then, the comics! Father is brought up again; the Shenanigan Kids are distinctly in their element; Bosh McNutt "gets his" in a novel manner. As for Mr. Dubb—well, he continues to be more of a dubb than ever. This time he—but we won't spoil it for you. Read it for yourself in the comic section of next Sunday's Advertiser.

PUT A LITTLE PEP INTO THE OLD PLAN

You have been doing a lot of thinking to evolve something new and you have been unsuccessful.

How about doing an old thing in a new way?

In your place of employment certain routines have been followed for years and years.

Instead of trying to improve upon them, you are making an effort to formulate an entirely new order of things, and so you are meeting many obstacles that discourage and defeat you.

It is difficult; to bring about something which is entirely new, but always there can be improvement.

Your ideas from boyhood have been to electrify the world.

Instead of trying to be so sensational, why not use your thought and energy in getting out a working plan to get better results from a system already in existence?

If you thus hit upon something practical you'll find your future looks rosier.

A Real Labor Leader
The Japanese Treaty
U. S. A. Last in Flying

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

Henderson, the able British labor leader, is coming to this country. American workers, if willing, may learn much from him. He knows how to make a labor party powerful and how to make government respect it.

In England the government asks what labor thinks and wants before making final plans. In this country labor is getting better pay, but in political influence it is a joke.

"Never mind the labor men," any experienced politician will tell you. "Humor them along, don't take them too seriously. On election day they will split so between the two old parties and vote the same old way, anyhow."

That is exactly the truth. For the health of the country there ought to be two great parties, one representing labor, the other business, with the great indefinite crowd between acting as umpire.

Now we have two business parties, Democratic and Republican, dominated absolutely by business interests, with lawyers in offices transacting the affairs of business, and labor merely the pawns used on one side or the other on election day, and always used for the benefit of the big pieces in the business chess game.

If a man went out hunting with a gun, and when he saw the game picked up a rock and threw it, he would hunt as the American workman goes into politics. In the ballot the workier has a weapon of precision which he does not use, resorting instead to strikes and fights that are like primitive rock throwing.

The absence of a labor party seems to increase the importance of labor leaders, who take the place of a party and pretend to deliver the labor vote, although they cannot do it. That is why American labor leaders are against any distinct labor party in politics. The workers should see and hear Henderson and learn what united workers can do in government.

Doheny, who developed oil in Mexico more than any other man and bought the land—not mere oil rights—has gone to England to form a gigantic oil company. It will be an English corporation and Americans as well as Englishmen will buy its stock enthusiastically. Buyers will know that the flag flying over the ships and properties of that company is one that insists on respectful treatment, even in Mexico, and that protects the property of British citizens and British companies.

It seems rather pitiful that a citizen of a great country must go over to Mexico should he care across the ocean to find a government that will protect his business and property. With our oil wealth depleted and soon to be exhausted it would seem worth while to protect any American intelligent enough to put Mexican oil tracts under American control. For oil is the fuel of the navy, and the only fuel that will make American ships with Diesel engines independent of British or other coaling stations.

Senator Lodge asks the President about an alleged German Japanese treaty made before the war ended. Many others would like to know about that treaty. It is supposed to have arranged for Japan and Germany to rehabilitate Russia and included trade arrangements between Germany and Japan to follow the war.

It is difficult to believe that Japan made such a treaty, for it would imply that she did not expect the honorable allies to win, and taken in connection with her self-control in sending no soldiers to help the Allies fight, it would shake the confidence of Japan's admirers here.

Poor old China has decided to sign the peace treaty after all, and enter the league, even though the treaty did hand over her territory to Japan. China must hope that Paris meetings to make everything safe will be few and far between.

England will spend three hundred and fifty millions on her flying machine program this year. France two hundred and seventy millions, and this little country about twenty-five millions.

Flying machine supremacy is as important now as battleship supremacy used to be. Flying ships are what we need to police this continent and control our landing places on both oceans.

Even the Mexican Government has discovered that the flier is the modern fighter and Villa, the bandit, is hunted with dynamite from the air.

If you are disturbed at the backwardness of your country in the flying machine line it may comfort you to remember that this country lent to England and France the money with which they are pushing air work.

Our country got one good, terrific dose of super-American graft in the war-time flying machine work when hundreds of millions melted. But that is no reason for letting the United States fall to last place in flying. The country cannot reach or jail the big grafters, it never does. But it could charge up the graft to profit and loss and patriotism, and begin again.
